is an extension of a partially specified matrix that is close to the original, and can be computed efficiently, i.e. with a complexity essentially equal to  $n \times |S|$ , where  $n$  is the size of the matrix and  $|S|$  is the number of elements in  $S$ .

Inversion of Partially Specified Positive Definite Matrices by Inverse

The purpose of the present study was to explore the influence of the number of targets specified on the quality of exploratory factor analysis solutions with a complex underlying structure and ...
