

validation of exceptional longevity pdf

An analysis of the Italian life tables at provincial level put the population of Sardinia and especially the Nuoro province beyond the usual range. The life expectancies at 60 and 85 are higher and the difference between men and women is less pronounced compared to what is usually observed elsewhere

The Validation of Exceptional Male Longevity in Sardinia

Validation of Exceptional Longevity. The Bewildering History of the History of Longevity by P. Laslett [References] On the 1st March 1681 John Locke, the philosopher, made the following entry in his journal in his chamber at Christ Church, Oxford: This day I saw one Alice George, a woman as she said of 108 years old at Alhallontide last [1 November 1680]. She lived in St Giles parish in Oxford and hath lived in and about Oxford since she was a young woman. She was born at Saltwyche in ...

Validation of exceptional longevity. Odense Monograph on Population Ageing. This monograph is a unique insight, not only into people of exceptional longevity, but also into the laborious work of validating the ages of such subjects. Whilst the volume shows that most reported instances of exceptional longevity are incorrect, it does cite many individuals whose longevity has been validated. Much of the age exaggeration occurred through to the late 19th Century. Until then, in Sweden and ...
